My thanks to Timothy Murphy for inviting me to contribute towards his wonderful @MNDArtChallenge, raising much-needed funds for the Motor Neurone Disease Association.

Here is the story behind this initiative in Tim's words:

Over the past six months I have become a full-time carer for my friend David, a 73 year old suffering from MND (also known as ALS). This is a rare terminal illness with few treatments and no cure. In the UK alone, six people per day are diagnosed with the condition and more than half will die within two years of diagnosis.

To read David's story, you can visit his blog - www.deardavid.co.uk

The #MNDArtChallenge offers us the chance to share something creative on social media, to donate to the MNDA, and to encourage 5 others to do the same.

All proceeds raised by this JustGiving campaign will go directly to the MNDA and will be linked to The David Peace Fund - www.davidpeace.muchloved.com
